CHANGES ARE NECESSARY

Happy
Independence
Day

Life brings changes. Due to continuing health problems, David Aiken is no longer the general manager for COACB's TV stations. The Board of the COACB voted unanimously to move Jonathan Aiken into the position as general manager. Jonathan is vice president of the COACB and Treasurer. David Aiken, founder of the COACB, will remain President of the organization and a board member.

Jonathan says, "I ask and pray for God's direction and your support." David states "To step down as general manager was a very difficult decision. But God has the right man in the right place. Jonathan has many talents. God will use him to accomplish much."

Jonathan Aiken is a graduate of River Valley High School. He has his Bachelor's degree from The Ohio State University majoring in economics. He has his Master's of Business Administration from Findlay University. He resides in Marion with his wife, Victoria, also a COACB volunteer, and his daughter, Chloe.

Jonathan has spent his entire life around television broadcasting and performed first on TV when he was three years old.

Drain pineapple chunks and pears or peaches. Add fruit cocktail, not drained, to pineapple and pears. Sprinkle instant lemon pudding over fruit. Mix and chill. Add bananas just before serving.

STORIES FROM MY RELATIVES

John Hoffman

My Uncle Kutterman had to fire his nurse. She was absent without gauze.

I awakened at 4:00 AM with the following burning on my mind. I had to get up and go to the computer to put it on paper . David Aiken

THINK ABOUT IT

All eyes focus on the accused as he awaits the judge's decision. The evidence presented has been compelling and complete leaving no doubt or even one single point that could be a basis of an appeal. It is strange that until the start of the trial, the accused had no idea that any of this evidence had been collected and stored away for this day.

All of his life, everyone marveled at how brave the accused was, but this day there is no bravery, just utter despair. Now alone, empty, and hopeless, he looks down not wanting to even glance toward the Judge. He weeps uncontrollable as he mutters, "How could I have been such a fool?" He thought that no one could ever find out some of the things he had done, and now everything has been presented openly at his trial.

He had constantly been surrounded by friends, some of which had urged him to do the things he is now accused of, but this day, not one of those friends stands by his side or offers any defense for him.

The Judge speaks and asks for a birth registry. The keeper of the records then states to the Judge that the accused name does not appear anywhere in the book. The Judge frowns and delivers the sentence. To the bailiff the Judge says, "Bind him hand and foot and cast him into outer darkness."

Shear terror fills the accused as he is bound and carried the edge of the lake. This is no ordinary lake for this one burns with fire. Even while still on the shore, the pain from the heat is unbearable and the smells coming from the lake can not be put into words. It is a mixture of burning rotten flesh and burning sulfur reeking with evil. The sounds coming from the lake are deafening consisting of moans and screams of the billions of damned, men, angels, and demons that have already been cast into the lake.

The condemned is then cast into the lake. Even as he hits the surface of the lake of fire something starts to bite him. He does not know if it is a man, a demon or the devil himself. He is in such pain that he all he can do is chew on anything that is around him.

This is now his fate for all of eternity and he could have escaped it all if he had simply accepted the Lord Jesus Christ as his savior.
