BOUGHT A DIGITAL TV YET?

Analogue TV will go away in February 2009? Suddenly over 100 million TVs will no longer work without a converter box. The FCC plans to issue up to two certificates per household toward the purchase of these converters. Digital stations will air up to six programs at the same time over their stations. Since the average person will be able to receive at least 10 stations with a very simple TV antenna they will have at least 60 programs available to them at all time for free. There is a lot of discussion on whether cable systems will survive. If you can receive 60 program channels for free, would you pay $70 for 100 channels? The prices of digital TVs are dropping drastically. Wal Mart even had one 13" model for $98.

FALLING LEAVES

About October of every year we start getting calls from people asking what we did to make such an improvement in our TV signal and the answer is nothing. As the leaves fall from the trees, there are fewer to block our signal and the signal goes up until the leaves come back on the trees in the spring.
